Kittle Found Guilty

Sentence Held Up For California Man; Faces 20 Years in Prison

Orville Kittle, 36, California, Pa., was convicted yesterday of second degree murder in the slaying of his nephew last August 10.

A Washington County Criminal Court jury deliberated more than three hours before reaching the verdict, which carries a maximum penalty of 20 years in prison. Sentencing was withheld pending a motion for a new trial.

Kittle, who formerly served nearly eight years in West Virginia's State Prison at Moundsville on a charge of kidnapping two police officers, was accused in the fatal shooting of George Wayne Lasko, 26, Cleveland, O.

The verdict almost but not quite destroyed the grim composure maintained by the defendant throughout the six days in the courtroom His shoulders stiffened just perceptibly when Court Crier Joseph Warne read the verdict and a trace of moisture appeared in his eyes but that was all.

Three Months Ago

Judge Hook charged the jury on the law and reviewed the testimony for an hour and a half in the afternoon before discharging the two alternate jurors and sending the 12 regular jurors into deliberation just after 3 p.m.

It was just over three months ago that Kittle fired the fatal shot that killed his nephew almost instantly. That shot climaxed a strange sequence of events at the home of Steve and Kay Barnett along Route 88 in California Borough.

Kittle, Mrs. Barnett, who is his sister, and Lasko, who was Kittle's nephew and Mrs. Barnett's son had visited several taverns that Saturday after Lasko's arrival from Cleveland for a visit.

They were at the Hollow Inn at Speers Borough in the afternoon. There was allegedly a burglary perpetrated there that afternoon and Kittle was singled out as a suspect. Speers Police Chief Charles A. Hazlett, along with Sherman Ziskind, one of the Hollow Inn operators, went to the Barnett home to find Kittle.

Heated Argument

There they became embroiled in a heated argument during which Kittle snatched Hazlett's .38 caliber revolver from the Chief's holster and held the entire group at bay. He was in Hazlett's car ready to leave the scene when Lasko made what proved to be the fatal mistake of trying to stop his uncle.

A struggle between Kittle and his nephew ensued and either during the struggle, or during a pause in the struggle, the shot was fired. Lasko went down with a bullet wound high in his chest, dying almost instantly before the eyes of his horrified and pregnant wife of eight months, his mother and the others caught in the tableau.

At this moment the California Borough Police car reached the scene in answer to a call about the earlier disturbance and Kittle commandeered that car and left the scene.

He was captured three or four hours later at a State Police roadblock on the road between Carmichaels and Crucible in Greene County.

$3,491,615 Is Given to Diocese Building Fund

Bishop Hugh L. Lamb of the Greensburg Catholic Diocese announced yesterday that $3,491,615 has already been contributed to the Diocesan Development Fund.

He also disclosed plans for a proposed building program.

Bishop Lamb reported on the Development Fund during a meeting of 200 diocesan priests at Seton Hill College in Greensburg.

The Bishop said the money was raised in four counties of the diocese with a Catholic population of 190,000.

He stated that up to October 1, a total sum of $3,491,615 had been contributed. This sum, he said, will be increased in the near future by the contributions of those who have not yet completed payment on their pledges.

To Break Ground

Bishop Lamb announced that ground will be broken early next year for a Central Diocesan High School at Greensburg which will accommodate more than 1,000 students coming from the area of Irwin, Jeannette, Greensburg and Latrobe.

This new high school, to cost more than a million dollars, will be built on the site of the former airport near Carbon, a suburb of Greensburg. The architectural firm of Henry P. Dagit & Sons of Philadelphia are now working on the final plans for the school. Francis O'Connor, Church of Greensburg, is the supervising architect.

This high school will be coeducational and will be staffed by Sisters of several religious communities, diocesan priests and lay teachers.

When sufficient funds are available, it is planned to establish schools in the Monessen and New Kensington areas, the Bishop stated.

Local Youngster Takes no Chances

A four-year-old Monessen girl isn't taking any chances.

She's already asked The Daily Independent to forward her letter to Santa Claus.

Writes Linda Mazzacco of 932 Athalia Ave.:

Jobless Appeal Slated for April

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The state Superior Court will hear arguments next April on an appeal by Westinghouse Electric Corp. involving up to 10 million dollars in unemployment compensation.

Westinghouse filed a general appeal Friday to a ruling last Oct. 11 of the state Unemployment Compensation Board of Review. The board ruling upheld a decision by its referee which declared 22,000 striking workers in the 156-day Westinghouse work stoppage of 1955-56 eligible for unemployment compensation for the last several weeks of the dispute.

The work stoppage was ruled a lockout.

The Westinghouse appeal covered all its plants in Pennsylvania.

Community Fund Total $22,719; Division Workers Are Dissatisfied

Contributions to the 1957 Monessen Community Fund have reached $22,719.43.

That was the figure reported yesterday by division Chairmen during a progress meeting at the Chamber of Commerce Office.

General Chairman Michael J. Skirpan Jr. pointed out that the new total represents an increase of $8,090.38 over the amount reported on Nov. 12. However he reminded that the Fund was still far short of its goal of $29,975.

"Division workers have expressed much dissatisfaction over the size of gifts made by many business, professional and other contributors during this year's campaign," added Skirpan.

Fund workers have been instructed to explain that the Community Fund supports 14 charitable agencies. Gifts, therefore, should be substantial enough to support all 14 groups. Many gifts are not measuring up, Skirpan said.

It was decided to complete solicitations as soon as possible.

All Monessen citizens who work out-of-town are asked to make their contributions to the campaign by mailing their gifts to the Community Fund, or by delivering them to the Mellon Bank and Trust Co., or the First Federal Savings and Loan Assn.

Skirpan urged every civic-minded citizen to make his fair share contribution to the Fund so that the 14 Red Feather agencies will be able to receive the full amount set up in the proposed budget.

Division chairman who attended yesterday's meeting included Norman Henderson, National Affairs; Mrs. John Dragan, Automobile Division; Mrs. John Stieska, Business Division; Dr. Joseph Pallone, Schools; Michael Mavias, Students; Joseph Cieply, Service Stations; Louis L. Manderino, Professional Division; Frank Bosco and Edward Furio, co-chairmen of Organizations; and Henry Furio, co-chairman of the campaign.

Congressman Kelley Dies at Noon Today In Maryland Hospital

Westmoreland County's veteran Democratic congressman, Augustine B. Kelley, died at noon today in a Chevy Chase, Md., hospital.

Kelley, 74, entered the hospital Nov. 12, and conflicting reports about his condition had been current ever since. Members of Kelley's Washington office staff had insisted that the Congressman was recuperating from the effects of a fall.

The Daily Independent was informed by a responsible source that Kelley was suffering from incurable cancer. The informant, in position to know the facts, said one of Kelley's kidneys was removed by surgeons last September and found to be malignant. Involvement of the other kidney was said to make death inevitable within a very short time.

Death came at noon today. While the Congressman's office at first denied the report, a spokesman later said: "The Congressman died at noon. The hospital has confirmed his death. I am sorry if I gave erroneous information at the start."

Kelley, entered the hospital Nov. 12 because his doctors felt he had been too active while convalescing from a major operation in September.

He developed a serious kidney ailment later and received the last rites of the Catholic Church.

Father of Nine

Kelley, the father of nine children, was the author of school aid bills defeated in the House this year and last. The latest bill, which would have provided $1,500,000,000 for school construction over a five-year period, lost by only five votes.

The congressman, owner of a coal company at Mammoth, Pa., served in the House for 16 years, representing Westmoreland County.

He was second ranking Democrat on the House Education and Labor Committee and a member of the joint Senate-House economic committee.

Kelley, as a young man, went to West Point for two years but was forced to quit because of a heart ailment.

Kelley was born in New Baltimore, Pa., July 9, 1883, to Abraham Francis and Mary Elizabeth Kegg Kelley. He attended elementary and high school in Greensburg, Pa., and was a graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point.

In 1913, he married Ella Marie Bates, of Scottdale, Pa.

Kelley's six sons and three daughters are all married. They are A. Regis; Robert V.; Richard B.; J. Hilary; Paul A., Marcella M., Therese E.; Kathleen A.; and James R.

The Kelley family has not actually lived in Westmoreland County for several years. The residence in Greensburg was sold sometime ago and Kelley has spent most of his time in Washington.

His district long has been regarded as a "sure" Democratic district. Kelley is now serving his eighth two-year term. He was first elected in 1940.

Partial confirmation of the serious nature of his illness came today when members of the family announced in Greensburg that

Says 'Moderate Layoffs' at Pittsburgh Steel

"Moderate layoffs" at Pittsburgh Steel Company's tube division at the Allenport plant are being forced by the continuing adjustment of inventories stocked by users of oil tubular goods, a spokesman said today.

Carl A. Breuer, vice president-operations, in response to newspaper inquiries, said there has been a sharp drop in orders for oil country tubular goods. This has resulted in a reduction of turns necessary on the hot tube mills at Allenport, forcing layoffs of approximately 525 employes — 5¼ per cent of total Pittsburgh Steel employment. About half the layoffs had been made prior to the current week and the remainder will become effective before the end of the current week, he stated.

"There is nothing Pittsburgh Steel or any other steel producer can do to prevent a situation such as this. Customers have on hand more tubular goods that they require to fill their immediate needs. They are simply holding off new purchases until they use up

Printing operations have been discontinued at Donora, a company spokesman said, although editorial offices are being maintained in that town.

The same advertisements appear in both papers and changes are made in news columns "when necessary", the spokesman said.

The company also owns daily newspapers in Canonsburg and Waynesburg.

R. A. Agnolucci Named Special Police Officer

Raymond A. Agnolucci, 40, has been appointed a special police officer for the City of Monessen, Monessen, Mayor Hugo J. Parente announced today.

He cannot attain the rank of patrolman until he successfully undergoes a Civil Service examination, which he is scheduled to take in the near future.

Agnolucci is slated to fill a vacancy created by the death several months ago of veteran Patrolman Alex Snyder.

Mayor Parente had no announcement as to the successor to James Horan, who resigned earlier this month as a lieutenant to accept a position as plant guard at Combustion Engineering Co. Inc., near Monongahela.

Agnolucci, married and the father of three children, was born and reared in Monessen. He also attended local public schools.

He served with the U. S. Army for five years during World War II. For the past 12 years he had been employed at the Irvin Works of U. S. Steel Corp.

Pro Wrestlers Fight 'For Real'; Fans Join In

NEW YORK (UP)—Professional wrestlers fought "for real" and several hundred fans joined in Tuesday night in an after-the-match riot at Madison Square Garden.

Two wrestlers and two policemen were injured and several hundred chairs were broken along with bottles—one on a policeman's head—and a glass case for a fire hose. The ringside area was left in a shambles.

Details of 33 policemen had to be called to aid the regular Garden force of 30 special officers in quieting the rioters. Three men were arrested.

The police then had difficulty getting the 13,000 spectators to leave the arena.

When wrestlers Antonio Rocca and Eduardo Carpentier won the evening's featured tag-team match by default, their opponents, Dr. Jerry Graham and Dick Affis, showed a desire to continue the match.

French Diplomat Talks To Dulles; Stevenson Sits in on Meetings

WASHINGTON (UP) — The United States has no immediate intention of sending any more guns to Tunisia, officials said today.

Moreover, if and when more arms shipments are planned, this country will consult first with France and also obtain new assurances from Tunisians the weapons will not fall into the hands of Algerian rebels.

Although no hard and fast promises resulted from Tuesday's conference of French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, Pineau apparently is going away in a happier frame of mind than he arrived in.

Pineau Confident

French officials said Pineau was confident he had succeeded in impressing upon Dulles the urgent need for limiting arms shipments to Tunisia.

Pineau this morning had a meeting scheduled with Adlai E. Stevenson, the state department's special NATO adviser. Before leaving for New York, Pineau also planned to talk to top U.S. defense officials, possibly on the deployment of American 1,500-mile ballistic missiles on the European continent.

Dulles and Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy said Tuesday the U.S. will start to send atomic missiles abroad at the end of next year or before mid-1959. McElroy said Britain would get them first.

Dulles To Speak

Stevenson, twice-defeated Democratic presidential candidate, was to fly to Chicago later today with Dulles, who is making an evening address to the Chicago Council of Foreign Relations.

A State Department spokesman said Stevenson, who sat in during part of the three-hour Dulles-Pineau talk, was present only for matters dealing with the NATO conference next month for which he is helping the U.S. develop means to strengthen the allies against Russia's new missile danger.

The Pineau-Dulles meeting, diplomatic sources said, succeeded in establishing working procedures for the U.S., Britain, France and Tunisia to reach a solution to healing the allied breach over the arms issue.

Fall Victim Is 'Critical'

John Culp, 44, of 433 East Schoonmaker Ave., Monessen, was reported in "critical" condition this morning in Charleroi-Monessen Hospital from injuries received late yesterday morning when he fell from a tree.

Hospital authorities said he is suffering from cerebral concussion and severe back injuries.

Culp was working on a tree on the former Wilson Farm on Monessen Highway when he tumbled to the ground. He landed on his head.

An employe in the open hearth department of the Monessen plant of Pittsburgh Steel Co., the injured man is the father of Rosalie Culp, "Miss Pennsylvania of 1957".

Soviet Moves to Bring Egypt into Economic Orbit

By UNITED PRESS

The Soviet Union has moved to bring Egypt into its economic orbit along with Syria.

Russia accompanied the promise of economic aid to Egypt with new accusations today against the United States and Israel and said they were plotting war against Syria. It said Israel was massing troops for an attack on Syria.

At the same time Cairo renewed its campaign against King Hussein of Jordan and attacked the United States. It accused Col. James G. Sweeney, U.S. military attache in Jordan, of "eclipsing" Hussein from Jordanian military affairs.

The Russian economic aid promise to Egypt was made Tuesday night in Moscow by Premier Nikolai Bulganin at a reception for Maj. Gen. Abdel Hakim Amer, the Egyptian defense minister and commander of the joint Syrian-Egyptian forces.

Nothing was said in Moscow on the Soviet-Egyptian military relations although Amer met with several high military figures including Defense Minister Rodon Y. Malinovsky. But Moscow observers noted that Amer visited more Soviet military installations than any other non-Communist soldier.

Observers recalled that Syria's decision to link its economic future with Russia followed a similar visit to Moscow.

Two Arrested For Soliciting With no License

Monessen police yesterday apprehended two men for soliciting without a license and scheduled them for a hearing in police court Friday.

Charged are Joseph Radic, 31, of 82 Scenery Blvd., Monessen, and Marino Reginelli,25, of 418 Second St., Donora. The men said they were working for a man whom they knew only as "Ashcroft" from Uniontown.

Their arrest came about when Daniel Myers, 436 Oneida St., Monessen, told police he was contacted by telephone and told he had won $50 in prizes. Police instructed Myers to call them when the "prize-givers" arrived at his home. His call led to the arrests.

The men reportedly would attempt to collect $2.50 in cash before issuing "gift certificates for the prizes," Chief of Police Michael Kuvinka reported.

The men were released after posting $30 forfeits each.

Other persons receiving such calls are urged to contact police as a precaution.

Monessen City Building Was Busy Place Last Night; Three Meetings

The Monessen City Building was a busy place last night.

Three meetings kept city officials hopping from one room to another.

The Planning Commission held its regular session while members of City Council conferred with both the Monessen Civic Library Association and with representatives of municipal employes.

The Planning Commission put the cap on its proposed zoning ordinance last night and authorized the measure to be put in final draft form for submission to City Council.

The Commission had previously made several changes in the ordinance after long study and after a series of public hearings. The only additional change last night was a reduction of the multi-family housing area south of Grand Boulevard opposite City Park.

Copies of the proposed ordinance, incorporating all changes, are to be prepared by engineers and sent to Council. The Council will then hold its own hearings on the measure before adoption.

The Commission discussed at length a communication from John W. Barriger, president of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad, taking exception to several items of the city's comprehensive master plan. The Commission authorized an acknowledgement, to be released at a later date.

A mounting work load has prompted the Commission to plan an extra conference a month for an indefinite period ahead. It will continue to meet regularly the third Tuesday but will hold an extra planning session every first Tuesday until its docket clears.

Major items for consideration include a proposed building code, urban renewal, air pollution, a capital funds budget and a popular report on the entire city planning program.

Members of Council conferred for about two hours with representatives of the Monessen Civic Library Association. Under discussion were plans for construction of a new library building authorized by the voters on Nov. 5 and for conversion of the present library to municipal operation.

Mayor Hugo Parente indicated after the conference that Council will shortly appoint members of a board of trustees which will be responsible to the city for operation of the library.

Heading the Civic Library committee was President Charles C. Throop. Louis Manderino, attorney for the association, also attended.

'Spending Spree' Not Necessary, Congressman Says

WASHINGTON (UP)—Chairman George H. Mahon (D-Tex.) of the House Military Appropriations subcommittee said today Congress will vote more money for missiles and satellites, but there is no need for a "spending spree."

He made the statement shortly before his subcommittee began questioning top defense officials behind closed doors to determine why U.S. rocket programs are "lagging" behind Russia.

Closeted with the committee were Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy, Deputy Secretary Donald A. Quarles, and William M. Holaday, the Pentagon's director of guided missiles.

Mahon said the inquiry was prompted by "spectacular developments in recent weeks"—a reference to Russian success in launching Sputniks I and II.

"We want to know why the lag (in the U.S. program) and what can be done about it," Mahon said.

He said Congress and the executive have been presented "with some of the greatest decisions of our time."

Mahon said:

—Much of the money appropriated by the last session of Congress for defense was "withheld" from spending by executive order. "We want to find out if funds are still being withheld."

—Some increase in expenditures will be needed, "particularly in the ballistic missile and satellite fields." However, it will not require a spending spree but "better decisions and planning."

U. S., Canada Gives Locations Of Radar Sites

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States and Canada have come close to pinpointing for all to know the locations of many of the secret radar stations providing warning of possible attack across the top of the world.

U.S. defense officials said however the net result will be more, rather than less, security for the two countries.

The two governments have just made public the names and exact locations of 21 main airstrips serving the radar sites comprising the distant early warning (DEW) line across the top of North America.

The air strips were identified when the two governments established a new polar air defense zone through which no airplane may fly without following a prescribed flight plan and without being positively identified.

The new zone runs roughly along a band marked by the 68th and 70th parallels of latitude.

Similar identification zones run across the United States - Canadian border, up and down the continent's coast and around Alaska.

Airplanes flying through the zones must file advance flight plans. They need the en route navigation facilities and radio communications of the zones to establish their courses.

Bishop Lamb informed the clergy that the diocese has already contributed $100,000 on its pledge of $300,000 to the Jeannette Memorial Hospital which is now under construction and is expected to be completed before the end of 1958. Plans are also being considered for the establishment of other diocesan institutions, including a Home for the Aged and an Orphanage.

The Bishop also disclosed that the personal contribution of the clergy amounted to $150,000

Rocket Scientist Gives His Views on Peace

(The notion of the U. S. launching a shining "Christmas satellite" as a peace gesture to the world has caught the fancy of Dr. S. Fred Singer, a University of Maryland astrophysicist. It also set him to thinking about the great space race with Russia. On a Nov. 16 train trip he was prompted to put down on paper a rocket scientist's revealing "statement of conscience.")

By S. FRED SINGER

WASHINGTON (UP) — I am not a pacifist, and I, like many others, recognize that war is preferable to living under peace which cannot be endured. But I don't think we are doing enough to promote peace.

In the phoney Soviet peace offensive their hypocritical use of the word (peace) has made the very word one which we should avoid lest we be called 'Reds.'

If one believes sincerely as I do, in the fundamental moral superiority of our way of life, a way of life for the rights and dignity of the individual are paramount, then I think the course to follow is clearly marked out.

Opportunity For U.S.

I think it is very essential that the U.S. inaugurate the space program which will surely lead to man's mastery of the solar system, in a spiritual and moral way. The Russians have chosen to begin it by launching a metal ball void of any spiritual significance, indeed of little scientific significance.

What an opportunity for us. I can't think it's necessary for us to demonstrate any technical superiority. Even if we could and did rattle our sabers louder than the Russians, even if we did enter a 'rocket shooting contest' suggested by Khrushchev, what could we gain.?

There are millions of sincere people in our country who want peace, who strive for it and pray for it. Their voice should be heard, and it should be heard round the world.

What better symbol for expressing this deep-felt urge than a peace and goodwill satellite which spells out our Christmas wish of peace on earth and goodwill to all men.

How can such a sincere demonstration not make an impact on the millions around the world who have been waiting for this message for 2,000 years. It is only today that this message has truly a world wide meaning.

Surely these men of good will will respond to this message and applaud it. Yes, even inside Russia there are millions who will applaud us even though they cannot answer back, people whose minds cannot be poisoned by Communist propaganda, people who admire the achievements of the U.S. and despise their dictators.

Most of State's Hospitals Will Increase Rates

HARRISBURG (UP) — All but one of Pennsylvania's 10 state-owned hospitals have announced patient rate increases but state Welfare Secretary Harry Shapiro is dissatisfied with the amount of the boosts.

Locust Mountain, Nanticoke, Coaldale and Scranton hospitals announced hikes in ward rates ranging from $1 to $3 per day. The minimum rate will be $9 per day at Locust Mountain and Coaldale which increased charges $2; $10 at Nanticoke which boosted them $1, and $11 at Scranton where a $3 increase was announced.

But Shapiro has notified the boards of trustees and superintendents of each of the institutions of a "suggested" minimum of $12 daily for ward patients and $15 for semi-private room service.

what steel they already have on hand," Breuer said.

He pointed out that other lines of products have already undergone and completed similar inventory adjustments, in addition to usual fall-off for some products — such as wire.

"Last fall and winter, Breuer explained," we saw wire and then sheet users work their inventories down. Sheet customers used almost the entire first half of this year to reduce their inventories. We felt the effect of this in the sheet division at Allenport but now the bulk of sheet inventory reduction has been completed. Our sheet production is restoring itself to better and higher levels. When these inventory adjustments occur, they affect all sheet producers, although Pittsburgh Steel so far has fared better than average for the industry, Breuer stated.

He said that the sheet division — although feeling the effect of increased completion for business-should not be effected by the demand for tubular goods.

At the Monessen works, what effect reduced oil country business will have on operations has not yet been determined," Breuer said.

Meanwhile, the Monessen Page plant of American Chain & Cable Co., Inc., is operating on a five-day schedule and "no layoffs of any consequence are in sight," Harvey W. Seymour, general manager, said today.

Much of the plant had been operating on a seven-day week but due to "seasonal conditions" has been placed on the five-day schedule Seymour predicted:

"We'll see some improvement after the first of the year."

Army's Decision To Pull Troops Praised, Blasted

LITTLE ROCK, Ark (UP) — Federal agents watched today for re eval of anti-integration agitation in wake of the Army's announcement that federal troops will be withdrawn from Central High School a week from today.

Mrs. L. C. Bates, president of the Arkansas chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, indicated she believed the announced withdrawal of the 101st Airborne troops was premature.

President Theodore A. Dillaha of the Capital Citizens Council, a segregationist group, said he believed the withdrawal would "help remove much of the ill-feeling the people of Arkansas have had toward the federal government."

In Washington, Justice Department sources indicated they plan no further court actions at Little Rock as long as the nine Negro students remain peaceably in the previously all-white high school.

Previous plans for possible prosecution of ringleaders in the agitation appeared to be shelved temporarily. Officials were in no mood to start anything as long as there are "no trouble, no mobs and no crowds" to impede the federal court integration order.

Meetings

John Kotch Jr. were present as was City Solicitor Frank Ezerski Jr.

Russell R. Jones, executive secretary of the Westmoreland County branch of the Pennsylvania Economy League, also sat in on the meeting. Jones is assisting in arrangements for the new library set-up.

Hourly employes of the City of Monessen met with Council and presented demands for an 18-cent across-the-board wage increase.

They also asked for changes in job classifications for bricklayers, jack-hammer operators and burners and welders.

The wage demand calls for about a 10 per cent increase The present hourly scale is $1.82 for laborers, $1.91 for truck drivers and $2.02 for heavy equipment workers.

Council didn't commit itself at last night's meeting and said it would take the demands under consideration.

U. S. Wants Rockets at European Bases by 1959; Speedup Ordered

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States today rushed rocket production hoping to put them in European defensive positions by 1959.

Army Chief of Staff Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor at the same time urged a speedup in development of an anti-missile missile as a defense to any Russian ocean-spanning rockets.

The step-up in 1,500-mile intermediate range ballistic missiles is expected to mean a further cutback in U.S. military manpower and domestic bases.

Top defense officials have given clear indications their budget going to Congress in January will have a lot of production money for IRBM's not previously counted on before Russia put two Sputniks into orbit around the globe.

Target Date Mid-1959

Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy said Tuesday the United States would start supplying Britain with intermediate ballistic missiles "before mid-1959." He said shipments to other allied nations would "have to follow" later.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles had made clear earlier that this country would press its plans to ring Russia with intermediate atomic missiles on the assumption the weapons would be available about the end of 195.

Dulles, who also revealed that this country was considering setting up several atomic stockpiles in Europe, conceded that the United States still does not have an operational intermediate missile ready for use by the troops.

Will Seek Permission

But he said this country "very likely" would open negotiations with its European allies for permission to establish bases when the weapons are available.

The idea would be to offset Russia's claimed possession of a 5,000-mile intercontinental missile by ringing the Soviet Union with the shorter-range but equally deadly intermediate missile.

McElroy hinted that the Defense Department might go ahead with production of both intermediate missiles now under test. They are the Army Jupiter and the Air Force Thor.

Earlier at Augusta, the secretary said the defense budget may climb as high as 40 billion dollars next year. Defense spending now is running at a rate of about $3,400,000,000 and may go higher before the current fiscal year is over.

Seek Ex-Neighbor For Pittsburgh Slaying Testimony

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A former neighbor of elderly Mrs. Elizabeth Ensinger, who was slain last Sunday night during a robbery attempt, was being held for questioning today as a material witness.

Detective Captain Joseph Flynn said Mrs. Ann Garrison, 37, of Pittsburgh, "so far. . .is not a suspect" but that police will oppose a habeaus corpus petition for her release.

A hearing on the release petition for the mother of three children was set for today.

Police said Mrs. Garrison formerly lived at 350 Bouquet St., in the other half of the Oakland duplex occupied by 84-year-old Mrs. Ensinger.

Police searched for a man who telephoned Sunday and asked that an ambulance be sent "to 348 Bouquet St." Police said they had obtained a good description of the man believed to have made the call.

Mrs. Ensinger, a moderately well-to-do landlady, had received approximately $200 per month for 16 years for four properties she owned. According to reports, she never banked any money and kept it in a drawer at her home.

Her bruised body, with a stab wound in the cheek, was found by police following the telephone tip-off call. Police theorized the call was made by the robber or an accomplice, who hoped the victim would be saved from death so that he would escape a murder charge if caught.

$700 Verdict in County Trial

GREENSBURG, Pa. (UP)—A civil court jury before Westmoreland County Judge David H. Weiss today returned a consent verdict of $700 in favor of Eugene J. Leszczynski, of New Kensington RD 1, against his mother, Anna.

The suit charged Mrs. Leszczynski failed to repay money loaned to her.

Kelley

Kelley will not seek reelection next year.

That touched off immediate speculation as to possible candidate, to succeed him.

Greensburg political circles reported his two sons, Regis and J. Hilary, were considering running for his seat.

Another person expected to be considered seriously is Mayor Hugo J. Parente, Monessen, a close personal friend of the Kelley family and former field secretary for the ailing congressman.

Parente, who just recently was elected to a fourth term as mayor, left for Harrisburg early this morning and could not be reached for comment.

Many Parente backers, including Chief of County Detectives A B. (Buddy) Turner, are known to have been boosting Parente as the person to succeed Kelley whenever the congressman decided to step down.

Kelley's two present field secretaries both are from Monessen. They are City Clerk Francis Crum and Andrew Kritsky, head of the county assessor's office. Kritsky has been serving in the post since Sept. 1 although no public announcement has been made of his appointment.

State to Probe Allegations of Cinder Fraud

HARRISBURG (UP)—The state Justice Department disclosed today it has been investigating charges of fraudulent state cinder manipulations for several months, including those called to the department's attention by Auditor General Charles C. Smith.

Attorney General Thomas D McBride said every fact disclosed by Smith in the latter's letter to McBride concerning alleged cheating of the state through cinder contracts had been known to department investigators previously.

"We are unable to say to what conclusion the investigation has led us up to the present time," McBride told a news conference late Tuesday.

"We believe if we were to release facts learned by us prematurely, we would hurt our investigation," he said. He added that he believed Smith's disclosures were "premature."

Smith charged earlier in the day the Commonwealth was being defrauded of "hundreds of thousands of dollars" through irregularities in deliveries of cinders in various counties.

But outside of citing several instances where weight slips showed "impossible" truck loads and deliveries, Smith did not go into details.

State Winding Up Canonsburg Case

The state may conclude its case today against three Canonsburg youths who are accused of beating to death 75-year-old Austin Wallace of McDonald in an apparent robbery attempt.

Four witnesses were called to the stand yesterday by the prosecution as the murder trail opened before Judge David H. Weiner in Washington County Court.

The fourth witness, State Policeman Peter Lesifko, returned to the stand today. Lesifko, who investigated the case, is expected to give the bulk of the testimony against the defendants.

The three youths are James Glenn Alford, George Tollard and Ronald Burgess.

The prosecution is asking for a first degree murder verdict with the penalty fixed at life imprisonment, charging that the three defendants beat the elderly victim at his McDonald R.D 3 home the night of May 13. Wallace died more than two months later in Washington Hospital of brain hemorrhages.

The State contends that Wallace was beaten during an attempt to rob him. The defendants were arrested first prior to Wallace's death on the robbery charges and later charged with murder when Wallace succumbed.

Dr. Ernest L. Abernathy, Washington Hospital pathologist, and first Commonwealth witness, testified that death was the result of a blow or blows to the head.

Subsequent witnesses yesterday were Mrs. Yolondo Kowalo and her son, John, both of whom live in the other side of the double house where Wallace lived.

John Kowalo testified that he was awakened by his mother's screams after, as she later testified she heard a muffled 'oh!oh!' from Wallace's side of the house. Kowalo and his mother investigated and found Wallace lying on his back on the floor, a large "knot" raised over his left ear.

Mrs. Kowalo testified that she saw a medium-sized Negro wearing a pink shirt leave the Wallace home. All three defendants as well as the victim are Negroes.

The Kowalos called State Police as well as Hattie Coleman of Southview, the latter taking Wallace to a doctor that night.

Lesifko, who did the investigation for the State Police, will resume the stand this morning to continue his testimony.

The three defendants are represented by court-appointed counsel, Richard DiSalle, Robert L. Ceisler and Samuel L. Rodgers.

Rotarians Hear Talk On Business Conditions

There is too much business pessimism in the country today, according to C. L. Melenyzer, Charleroi merchant and banker.

Addressing the Monessen Rotary Club yesterday, Melenyzer said the current "contraction" in business probably will be short-lived. Certainly there will be no depression, he thinks.

Heavy industry, such as steel, coal and automobiles, may be adversely affected by changes in defense production due to more concentration on missiles, Melenyzer believes.

But overall he thinks the national economy is sound and will resume its upward trend within a few months.

Melenyzer was introduced by Rotarian Rinard Woods, who referred to the speaker as "Mr. Charleroi".

Next Tuesday evening the Rotary Club will entertain members of the Rostraver Twp. 4-H Club, their parents and sponsors at the annual "Capon Roundup" which Rotary here has sponsored for many years.

Choice capons raised by 4-H members will be purchased by the Rotarians for their Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners.

The Roundup will be held in the Methodist Church with dinner to be served at 6:30. The program is being arranged by Dr. J. Karl Beery, chairman of Rotary's rural-urban committee.

Guests attending were John S. Metz and John LaCarte, Charleroi, A. R. McLain and John F. Campbell, Monongahela.

Dormitories Are Pushed in State

HARRISBURG (UP)—The General State Authority has put increased emphasis on construction of dormitory facilities at state teachers' colleges.

The authority late Tuesday delayed action on a proposal by West Chester State Teachers College to cut back on dormitory construction and increase the estimate for a music building. The proposal had been approved by the Public Instruction Department.

Under the plan a dormitory planned for 300 men at a cost of $1,200,000 would have been slashed to a 218-unit facility to cost $880,000, and one for women from $1,000,000 for 250 students to $728,000 for 182 students.

St. Michael's Society to Hold Banquet Sunday

St. Michael's Archangel Roman Catholic Society Group 333, Monessen, will hold its 50th anniversary banquet Sunday at Polish National Alliance Hall, 214 Knox Ave. The affair will begin at 6 p.m.

Principal speaker will be Kasmir Kozakiewicz, Chicago, national president of the Society.

Others scheduled to speak are Mayor Hugo J. Parente; Edward Januszewski, postmaster; Dr. Joseph Pallone, superintendent of local public schools; Earl S. Keim, district attorney-elect of Westmoreland County, and Howard (Bud) Thomas, sheriff.

Charter members of the organization, including its first president, Jacob Cenpnarowski, are to be introduced and honored.

Present officers of the group are Theodore Blama, president; Anthony Hubert, vice-president; Paul Pacana, financial secretary; Mrs. Mary Zywicki, treasurer; Anthony Organ, recording secretary, and the Rev. Joseph Nowakowski, St. Hyacinth Church, chaplain.

The complete program for the affair will be announced later, August Francowic, general chairman, said today.

Somerset Man. Brother Held In Wife's Death

SOMERSET, Pa. (UP)—Melvin Boden, 36, was charged with murder and arson Tuesday in the death of his wife.

His brother, Harry, was charged with arson and accessory after the fact.

Both pleaded innocent when arraigned before Justice of the Peace H. S. Whipperman Tuesday night.

State police filed the information against the brothers after a two-day investigation into the death of Mrs. Mary Boden, 36, at her Rockwood, Pa., home.

Mrs. Boden's body was found Sunday in her bedroom. An autopsy revealed she had suffered third-degree burns and a head injury.

Officers theorized Mrs. Boden probably was placed unconscious on the bed, and the bed then set on fire.

The 'Girard Case' And U. S. Opinion

THE "GIRARD Case", which at one point had some of the aspects of a grave international cause celebre, has now been concluded. A Japanese court has found Specialist William Girard guilty of killing a Japanese woman by firing an empty shell casing at her. But the judge has given Girard a suspended sentence, and he is free to return to the United States at the discretion of the U.S. Army.

It seems to us that this disposition of the case should make some people in the United States rather ashamed of their wild rantings when the U.S. Government decided, the Supreme Court later concurring, that Girard should be tried in a Japanese civilian court rather than in a U.S. Army court martial.

Charges were made that the United States was deserting an American soldier, the inference being that Girard was being turned over to some barbarians as a sacrifice to diplomatic expediency. Some of the propaganda along this line even tended to make Girard something of a hero.

All this sounds pretty foolish now. Girard had the fairest kind of trial and had thoroughly competent counsel, both Japanese and American. The court proceedings were extremely deliberate, much more so than an American court martial, or even an American civilian trial, would have been.

Although he was charged with a capital crime, Girard remained in American custody and enjoyed the freedom of his post.

In view of the testimony, there was no doubt of Girard's guilt. The only serious questions involved technical matters, such as how far the victim was from the mortar which Girard fired at her.

As for the sentence, it is extremely light and probably much lighter than a court martial would have decreed. Girard is a very lucky man indeed.

* * *

TO WHAT extent the Japanese were bending over backwards to avoid possible offense to American public or official opinion, we have no means of knowing. But certainly no fair-minded American can have any complaint as to the Japanese handling of the case.

Moreover, those who have followed the trial at all closely must have a wholesome respect for Japanese legal procedures. And Judge Yuzo Kawachi, who presided, impressed us as an exemplary jurist by any standards. He was fair yet firm and dignified; and he was kind, patient and merciful.

The "Girard case", all in all, has turned out quite differently than some Americans expected.

Our No. 1 Duty

MONESSEN'S Community Fund, the annual campaign for which is now in progress, is easily this city's No. 1 charitable obligation. As such, it rates first attention on the part of every conscientious citizen in the planning of his yearly contributions for charitable and cultural purposes.

Obviously in recent years the Community Fund has not received this sort of attention from many people. Otherwise, it would not have fallen short of its goal as consistently as it has.

But this sad fact does not reduce the importance of the obligation in the least. Rather it should serve to heighten our sense of community responsibility. A community, no less than an individual, cannot be at peace with itself while it habitually neglects an important duty.

We realize that this comment is rather negative in character, and that may not be the best salesmanship. Certainly the Community Fund has a gloriously positive story to tell, a story of community betterment of the kind no city can be without. And we trust the campaign workers are giving this positive story to potential contributors.

But we cannot avoid expressing our deep concern about this example of civic neglect in the habitual short-changing of the Community Fund. It seems to us to bespeak a serious flaw in Monessen's community character and one which we hope will soon disappear.

The drive has passed the halfway point towards the goal of $29,975. And we think Monessen will have a far better Thanksgiving and a far better Christmas this year if the rest of the quota is contributed promptly and in full.

Frankfurter Copies White House Menu

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Justice Felix Frankfurter, born in Vienna and brought to the United States 63 years ago, was three quarters of a century old last week. In those years, he, an immigrant boy, had climbed to the highest court in the land.

Mr. Pearson

His fellow Supreme Court justices, some of whom don't always enthuse over his voluble expostulations from the bench, gave Felix a dinner in honor of his 75th birthday. It was considerably different from another dinner which Frankfurter himself gave on the same night Queen Elizabeth was entertained by Eisenhower in state at the White House.

Frankfurter, a great admirer and defender of the British, was not invited. The White House guests included executives of Coca Cola, Seagrams Whiskey, the Young and Rubicam advertising agency, the Cluett Peabody shirt company, a director of Republic Steel, and the other big campaign contributors.

Not Invited

But Justice Frankfurter, though not invited to the White House, was not to be outdone. He sent out formal dinner invitations to four close friends, including Donald Hiss, brother of Alger Hiss. Ominously, the invitations read: "White tie mandatory."

Obediently, guests arrived in white ties and tails. Greeting them, Justice Frankfurter said: "I see you are in full splendor, but I can cut one notch higher than you on this thing."

He pointed to his midnight blue tail coat and to the red lapels that had been specially attached for the occasion.

"I'm quite a whiz when I go in for pomp and circumstance," joked the Supreme Court justice.

The guests went in for dinner. The first course was luxurious cream of almond soup. One of the ladies tittered. Cream of almond soup was also being served to Queen Elizabeth at the White House.

Second course was filet of sole. This time two ladies tittered.

Third course was roast duckling — exactly what the Queen of England was eating at the White House.

The fourth course turned out to be nesselrode pudding, again duplicating the White House menu.

Frankfurter confessed that he was an avid reader of the women's pages, had clipped the White House menu, gone personally to the Library of Congress to consult a high-brow British cookbook for one of the recipes.

"We can enjoy their food, but they can't have our conversation," he said. "Just think what wonderful talk the other people are missing."

Big Brothers of America

It's no secret that juvenile crime has shot up in the U. S. for eight consecutive years. Since 1948 there's been a 70 per cent increase in the number of appearances before juvenile courts, despite the fact that the population increase of juveniles between 10 and 17 was only 16 per cent.

Last year was the worst. Police arrests of juveniles went up 17 per cent and court appearances shot up 20 per cent.

The District of Columbia, capital of the U. S. and supposed to be a model city, is no model when it comes to juvenile crime. Its court cases have doubled in the past six years, which is above the national average.

Washington even let its Big Brothers organization lapse last year for lack of funds, and for this and other reasons there were 1,635 juvenile delinquency cases filed last year — a record. Today the District of Columbia is reviving Big Brothers, an organization operating in many other cities, to give youngsters guidance when they are on the verge of crime or just need friendly advice.

The basic problem leading to delinquency is insecurity — a youngster's feeling that he's not wanted by his family or the community. Every human being has a fundamental desire to belong. When there is desertion by a parent, or separation or divorce, the youngster may be headed for trouble.

Knowland Faces Hard Fight

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

LOS ANGELES — So much attention has been focused upon the certainty that Sen. William Knowland could wrest the nomination for governor of California from Goodwin Knight that many Republicans are overlooking the uncertainty that he can win the election.

Mr. Drummond

It is now evident that Mr. Knowland faces the most formidable opposition which any Republican gubernatorial candidate has had to encounter since the rise of Earl Warren. Fortunately, for the Republican side, the Senator is not the kind of politician to make the mistake of discounting his opponent, Attorney General Edmund K. (Pat) Brown, a Republican who turned Democrat in the midst of the 1930 depression.

Every bit of evidence suggests that this is going to be a fiercely fought contest.

One reason is that the California governorship is a precious and powerful political prize, second only to that of New York. It is a political elevator.

The supporters of Sen. Knowland want two things above all else:

To put the rapidly growing state of California, destined to be more populous and therefore politically more influential than New York before long, more firmly in Republican hands. (Republicans already hold all but one of the state-wide offices, both U.S. Senate seats, 17 of the 30 Congressional seats, 42 of the 80 Assembly seats and 20 of the 40 State Senate seats.)

To give Mr. Knowland, already nationally known and a favorite in his party, the valuable platform of the governorship and executive experience in the hope — and expectation — that at the propitious time these would propel him into the presidential nomination.

They would settle for more.

I don't mean that Bill Knowland seriously doubts that he can win. He exudes confidence and it is contagious. But neither he nor others who are close to the facts take it as an easy or automatic premise that he will win. He is going to have to fight hard and he knows it. These are some of the reasons.

1—Outside of President Eisenhower's personal popularity, the Democratic party has been gaining strength steadily. In contests for the Senate, for the House of Representatives, for the governorships, for the state house, the trend has been consistently Democratic for several years. Apart from the presidency the Democrats have won when Mr. Eisenhower was not running and have won when he was running.

2—The elections two weeks ago were more of the same, two Democratic governors and the Democratic mayor of New York increasing their majorities and the Democrats picking up another handful of mayoralties.

3—The latest Gallup poll shows that there has been a pronounced shift away from the Republican party throughout the Middle West where Democratic sentiment is now as strong, 54 per cent, as it was in the peak New Deal days of 1932 to 1936. And only a year ago Mr. Eisenhower and the Republican candidates did not do as well on the Pacific Coast as they did in the mid-Western states.

4—While all the public and private polls taken here in California during the last few months—partly to pressure Gov. Knight to step down — showed Mr. Knowland favored over Mr. Knight, a professional poll conducted for "The Mirror News" revealed Pat Brown leading both Knowland and Knight in populous Los Angeles County. He led Knowland 46 to 41 per cent and Knight 47 to 38 per cent.

Has GOP Friends

There is another factor which makes Mr. Brown a candidate not lightly to be dismissed. He is a conservative Democrat with Republican friends. He won the attorney generalship handily in 1950 and was so obviously unbeatable in 1954 that the Republicans never even put a candidate in the field against him.

Heretofore Mr. Warren and Mr. Knight have only had to face opponents drawn from the left wing of the Democratic party. Mr. Knowland will have to face a Democratic conservative as will Mr. Knight in the Senate race if he is opposed by Rep. Clair Engle, a veteran Democratic congressman who voted for the Taft-Hartley law. It may make a difference.

Bill Knowland is, of course, something pretty special. He radiates the kind of personal integrity which made many people want to vote for Sen. Taft whether they agreed with him or not.

Behind The News—

Indonesia May Seize Dutch New Guinea

By CHARLES M. McCANN

Indonesia is talking about conquering Netherlands New Guinea unless the Dutch government gives it up.

The "neutralist" government of the republic, which attained its independence from the Netherlands in 1949, has never been able to control its own territory.

Revolts are chronic in several areas. The army is unruly with its officers split into factions. The Communists have made dangerous gains in recent elections.

It might be thought that, faced by this situation and with its possession of 2,000 islands spread along a 3,000-mile stretch between the Indian Ocean and the Pacific, the Indonesian government might be content to try to rule its own 82 million people.

But Indonesia is demanding in the United Nations this week that the Netherlands surrender the 151,000 square miles of its New Guinea territory which lies to the east. Indonesia calls the territory "West Irian."

Indonesia's claim is based largely on the ground that it ought to inherit everything the Netherlands possessed in that part of the world. However, New Guinae is obviously a separate territory. Its people are of an entirely different racial stock than Indonesians.

In recent weeks, as the time for the U.N. debate neared, Indonesian leaders have been increasingly threatening in their statements.

Foreign Minister Subandrio said, in a statement during a visit to the Philippines, that the New Guinea situation could lead to a world war unless the U.N. vote went in its favor.

Threatens Use of Force

Indonesia must use force if the It an issue is rejected by the U.N.

The Netherlands has made it plain that it will not give up its part of New Guinea.

Also, it happens that Australia controls the remainder of New Guinea, part outright, part under a U.N. trusteeship.

Australia has made it plain that in no circumstances will it permit Indonesia to take over Dutch New Guinea.

It is hardly likely that Indonesia would get anywhere if it tried to take Netherlands New Guinea, or western New Guinea, by force.

Nevertheless, the dispute is potentially serious, if only because any trouble areas helps Soviet Russia in the cold war.

There is also the fact that the United States, for reasons of policy, has said it would remain "neutral" in the U.N. debate.

Children Still Read Avidly, Expert Says

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UP)—One authority on children's books says today's young generation reads everything in reach.

Which should be heartening news to all us adults who have been fretting about the demands of television on a child's free hours or on reasons why "Johnny can't read."

Gay Pauley

This being the 39th annual Children's Book Week, I visited Mrs. Frances Spain, an affable, Georgia-born woman who has worked with youngsters in library and classroom for 25 years. She at present is head of the children's section of the New York Public Library, where some three and one-half million children's books are checked out yearly.

Classics to Comics

"What are they reading? Mercy me, everything in all fields," said Mrs. Spain. "They're going through the books grandma grew up on...the classics as well as the comics. I must say, though, we don't include the latter in our library listings."

"A bunch of us worried when television came along, fearing it would cut into a child's reading time," she recalled.

"But then, so does dancing school.

"Circulation did drop a bit at first, but not as we had feared. Television stimulates a certain amount of reading. The classic example was a few seasons ago when we had the Davy Crockett craze in everything. Well, we couldn't keep his biography, or that of any other western hero on the shelves."

Statistics from the Children's Book Council support Mrs. Spain's observations. Lucy Tompkins, the executive secretary, said that in 1921 there was one children's book editor. Now, the council has 69 member publishers. Non-member publishers of juveniles ring the total to 105, she said.

Children's Books Triple

In 1900, there were 527 children's book titles published. Last year, 1,495. The American Book Publishers Council, Inc., reported a 38 per cent increase from 1954 through 1956 in the number of volumes sold, in the $1 and up category. The under $1 retail showed a 12 per cent increase.

All told last year, either the kids or doting relatives bought nearly 145 million books.

Mrs. Spain said children's tastes in reading have changed little with the years. "We have noticed," she said, "that there is more demand for books of fact. Not done in a fictional manner, but straight - forward. And the children seem to be reading more biography and history. Right at the moment, our books on space, flying and science fiction are 'best sellers'."

"But the children never tire of Black Beauty, Tom Sawyer, Hans Christian Anderson, Grimm's Fairy Tales, Arabian Nights, Robinson Crusoe, Little Women, Alice in Wonderland..."

How about Huckleberry Finn, the book recently dropped as a grade school text by the New York City Board of Education as "unsuitable."

"Oh, we have Huck on our shelves," said Mrs. Spain. "The unabridged version."

The Lighter Side—

London Papers Trying To Stir up People

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP)—A London newspaper is offering a big pile of money for the first man to reach the moon and return in the next 10 years, regardless of nationality.

The prize is 50,000 British pounds, which works out, at the present exchange rates to about $140,000—or, I hasten to add, 560,000 rubles.

The paramount thing to remember in case you plan on entering the contest, is that in order to enjoy the money you ought to try to come back alive.

Another London newspaper recently offered to give away a man as the prize in a circulation contest. It did, too. And, as near as can be established on this side of the ocean, there have been no complaints heard from the prize-winner on the serviceability of the prize.

Daily Mirror Alarmed

Last Wednesday's edition of the London Daily Mirror—the largest daily newspaper in the world in point of circulation—offered something Americans will find remarkable.

The Daily Mirror is tabloid size. Its entire front page was filled with a huge headline that started at the top with underlined italics and got bigger and heavier as it progressed. It said:

"Wake up, Britain! We're living in the past. We're too slow, too sleepy. . ." (and then, in black block capitals) "Too Damn Smug!"

Then the reader was directed to the two center pages in which the editor slammed down his thoughts, starting out this way:

"This blessed plot, this earth, this realm, this England is not the place it was. This sceptred isle is deluding itself. This happy breed is backward . ." At the top of the long editorial a headline said, "If this shocks you, Britain will win," and at the bottom, "If this doesn't shock you, we've had it!"

Flossie Seeks Mate

In the same edition, in the letters department, a lady signing herself "Flossie" from Aberavon, Glamorgan, complained that "my husband, who is crazy on darts, can always 'lose' himself if there is a chance of a game anywhere." She said she gave him a rolling pin for his birthday, and every darts night she leaves it on the table near the door for him to see when he comes home from the pub.

On the rolling pin she has engraved this verse: "Your supper is on the hearth, dear—a pipe and a book that's new. Your slippers are by the fire, dear, But where the hell are you?"

C. D. of A. Sponsors Lecture

"The Spiritual Training of Our Children" is the subject Mrs. Mary Reed Newland has chosen for her lecture to be given on Sunday at 7:30 p. m. in the St. Dominic social center in Donora.

The appearance of Mrs. Reed is being sponsored by the Monongahela Valley Courts of the Catholic Daughters of America which includes Monessen, Belle Vernon, Bentleyville, Charleroi, Donora and Monongahela.

Best Known Book

Mrs. Newland is a well known lecturer and author. Among her best known books is "The Year and Our Children." This book is designed to show parents how to initiate their children naturally and understandingly into the true spirit of the church year. Varied and interesting ways of teaching prayer and doctrine are suggested. With "down-to-earth" common sense she allows for the adaptation of her suggestions to the conditions of individual family life. Other books she has written are "We and Our Children" and "The Saints and Our Children."

Family Life

Mrs. Newland has seven living children, and her books have grown out of her own experiences. When a child she lived in Michigan, Indiana and Texas. After graduating from High School in Long Island, she attended classes at Pratt Institute and the New School for Social Research, and studied art at the National Academy of Design. She worked in department stores and advertising agencies until her marriage to William J. Newland in 1943.

Mrs. Mary Newland Reed

The author and lecturer has dedicated her life to the spiritual training of children. Because of her knowledge in family life, a special invitation has been extended to parents in the participating communities.

The Catholic War Veterans Chorus will present the musical portion of the program.

'Extra' Rooters for 'Hounds, Spartans

Monessen and Hempfield will have many rooters, not directly connected with either the schools or the territory in which the two schools are located, pulling for them in Saturday afternoon's clash here . . . Uniontown fans will be hoping the Greyhounds come out on top while Wilkinsburg fans will be cheering for the Spartans . . . The same thing applies to the Jeannette-Connellsville game Friday night, with Uniontown fans rooting for the Jayhawks, Wilkinsburg fans for the Cokers . . . All this confusing "cheering" stems from the fact that either Uniontown or Wilkinsburg will meet Clairton for the WPIAL title at Pitt Stadium on Nov. 30 . . . It all depends on who picks up the most points in the two games mentioned plus a Uniontown win over Redstone in the Raiders' season finale Friday.

* * *

In case you're interested. the point standings look something like this — Clairton is in with 134 points and can now go as high as 139 depending on what foes do (The Bears have completed their season); Wilkinsburg has 127 and can climb as high as 130 . . . Nothing official will be announced on the title game until the WPIAL Football Committee meeting next Monday . . . One thing is sure, however, Clairton will be one of the competing teams . . . By the way Uniontown has copped one championship, that of the two-year-old Western Conference comprised of the Raiders, Mt. Lebanon, Washington and Baldwin . . . Two new teams will join the loop next season, Munhall and Trinity.

Cage Clinic at Rostraver JHS Tomorrow

Rostraver Junior High School's beautiful new gymnasium will be the site of a basketball clinic tomorrow night beginning at 7:30 o'clock . . . The clinic is under the sponsorship of Chapter 5, Basketball Officials Association and will be conducted by Thomas S. Barbero, Monongahela High faculty manager of athletics. the Chapter's rules interpretor . . . A regulation game will be played with Monessen's Bud Roman and well-known George Kuvinka officiating . . . Barbero will interpret the rules and a movie will be shown in order to explain the number of changes in the rules for the 1957-58 season . . . The clinic is open to the public.

* * *

Speaking of basketball clinics, the Charlerol and Monongahela cage teams will compete in a clinic at Connellsville High School Thursday night of this week . . . Twelve schools in all will be represented at the session beginning at 7:30 o'clock . . . That was a tough break for John Mesher, former Donora High basketball star, to be declared ineligible at Pitt after winning a first team berth . . . Mesher had been in school in 1949, then dropped out to work in a district steel mill but came back this year . . . Under Eastern Collegiate Athletic Council rules an athlete must complete his eligibility within five years after he first competes.

St. Vincent Quint Seen as 'Tough'

St. Vincent College's basketball squad is said to be one of the finest ever to represent the school and perhaps one of the finest in the Tri-State district . . . Reason for all the enthusiasm (in addition to the fine talent on this year's squad) is the fact that Dodo Canterna's Bearcats topped both Duquesne and Pitt in scrimmage sessions. (The results of which weren't made public. natch) . . . That fellow in the sports coat you saw standing beside Terry Brennan most of the time during Saturday's Notre Dame-Oklahoma game was Roger Valdiserri of Belle Vernon, who serves as Brennan's secretary and right-hand man . . . Roger, the missus (the former Elaine Tintori of Belle Vernon) and the Brennans are very close friends.

Stole '56 Show

Garagiola. who caught for the Cardinals, Pirates and Cubs before he started broadcasting and pitching strikes in the knife-and-fork circuit, wowed 'em at the 1956 affair. He stole the show and made such a tremendous hit that a repeat performance was more or less a "must."

Valley Cage Coaches Await Grid Finales

Three Mon Valley Conference (Section 5-A) basketball coaches are anxiously awaiting the end of the 1957 football campaign

Usually, at this time the cager mentors are too busy with preparations for their first games to bother with the outcome of the football games at this late date but the crazy, mixed-up grid season this year is an exception.

The three coaches in question, Frank Janosik of Monessen, Henry Pennline of Charleroi and George Bennett of Brownsville have to work with "half" squads until the gridders who also play basketball have completed their seasons.

Janosik Waiting

On the local scene Coach Janosik will be without the services of such stalwarts as Dan Barton, Joe Karbowsky, Jimmy Lewitsky, Carl Payne, Ken Bronson and several others expected to give the 'Hound cage entry a lift this season, for the opener against McKeesport next Friday night, unless the Brownsville grid game is played early next week.

At Charleroi. Coach Pennline looks longingly at the grid squad where such standouts as Ollie Payne and Joe Uhlman, Jim Coldiitz and Lou Partenzana won't be ready for a clinic test at Connellsville tomorrow or the opener next Friday against the Cokers if he has to give the gridders a week off between seasons.

Bennett in his first year at Brownsville, won't have Art Bentley or Don Baker, who are expected to help considerably this year.

The other four 5-A coaches, Al Cree of Monongahela, Tom Kealey of Bellmar, Jerry Wunderlich of Donora and Bill Watkins of California are not in the "waiting" boat as their football teams completed their seasons last week giving the footballers plenty of time to get ready.

Result of Hempfield Game Can Affect AA WPIAL Title Tilt

Prospects of a capacity crowd for the Monessen-Hempfield grid game here Saturday afternoon loomed today with stories appearing in several valley papers over the effect the game will have on the WPIAL title game.

It now develops that a victory for the Greyhounds over the Spartans would help Uniontown's point total for the AA title tilt against Clairton where a Spartan victory would jump the Wilkinsburg points and possibly edge the Red Raiders.

A lot hinges also on the outcome of the Connellsville-Jeannette game where Coker win will aid Uniontown, a Jeannette victory a boost to Wilkinsburg.

Several district newspapers have been booming the Monessen-Hempfield contest and interest appears to be high for the contest.

Can See Both Games

The fact that the Connellsville-Jeannette game is at Connellsville Friday night and the Hempfield game here Saturday afternoon gives the fans an opportunity to see both contests.

Coaches Bill Abraham of Hempfield and Armand Niccolai report both teams ready for the contest with the 'Hound mentor hoping his lads don't suffer a letdown after playing one of their finest games against Donora Friday night. Hempfield is licking its wounds from a 27-7 set-back at the hands of unbeaten New Kensington

Other games on tap this week show Uniontown traveling to Redstone, tomorrow night, Charleroi battling Brownsville Friday night, Centerville. in the A race, meeting Beth Joint Friday at Fredericktown, Jefferson at Carmichaels Friday and another Thursday game showing German at Canonsburg

Jimmy Brown in Top NFL Ground Gaining Spot

PHILADELPHIA (UP)— By the looks of things, Jimmy Brown will win his letter in professional football this year as a rookie.

Brown, the linebusting fullback for the Cleveland Browns, took over first place in individual rushing in the National Football League with a 68-yard performance against Washington last Sunday.

Brown totaled 532 yards in 130 carries to bump Tommy Wilson of Los Angeles out of the first place spot he held for five weeks. Wilson was seven yards behind Brown, with Hugh McElhenny (467) of the 49ers, Rick Casares (456) of the Chicago Bears and Ollie Matson (436) of the Chicago Cards following.

O'Connell in Front

Tommy O'Connell of Cleveland, passed for 324 yards against the Redskins to hold first place in passing with Eddie LeBaron of Washington, the early season leader second.

Lou Groza, who kicked three field goals in a single game for the 11th time in his career, and whose third last Sunday with 13 seconds left, salvaged a tie for the Browns in their Redskins meeting became the third Brownie to jump into the statistic high spots. He tied George Blanda of the Bears at 50 points in individual scoring. Jim Mutscheller of Baltimore was third with 48.

Unitas Most Prolific

Johnny Unitas of Baltimore continues to be the most prolific touchdown thrower with 18 completions for scores as well as the highest yardage totaled with 1,530 gained. Y. A. Tittle of San Francisco threw 11 touchdown passes.

Billy Wilson of San Francisco, defending champion in pass receptions, made hay while Jack McClairen of Pittsburgh was idle last weekend. The eight passes snared by the Forty-Niner put him in front of the Steeler with 32 receptions. McClairen has 31, but has one game more to play than Wilson. Jim Doran (30) leads in yardage with 586 and Mutscheller in touchdowns with eight.

Don Chandler of the Giants led the punters with a 46.1 yard average, Bert Zagers of Washington was the punt return leader; Don McIlhenny of Green Bay led in kickoff returns and Jack Butler of the Steelers, despite an idle day, led in interceptions with eight.

St. Louis Wins

LONDON (UP) — Boswell St Louis of Trinidad outpointed British welterweight champion Peter Waterman Tuesday night in a non-title bout. Waterman holds a victory over former world champ Kid Gavilan.

Sooners Favored to Bounce Back; Iowa Seen Besting Irish

NEW YORK (UP)— The oddsmakers figure Oklahoma will bounce back into the victory column Saturday and that Notre Dame may suffer a natural letdown after snapping the Sooners' 47-game winning streak.

Consequently, Oklahoma is the biggest favorite on this week's card, the oddsmakers picking them to beat Nebraska at Lincoln, Neb., by a whopping 27 points.

And Notre Dame was quoted a seven-point underdog against Iowa in a game at South Bend, Ind.

Ohio State, second in the national ratings, is a three-point choice over Michigan at Ann Arbor, Mich.; UCLA seven over Southern Cal. at Los Angeles, and Princeton seven over Dartmouth in a game at Princeton, N.J., which will decide the Ivy League championship.

North Carolina State was picked over South Carolina, Baylor over Southern Methodist and Missouri over Kansas, all by the margin of a single point.

Oregon and Oregon State at Eugene, Ore., were quoted at even money.

The odds on other leading games.

East—Pittsburgh six over Penn State, and West Virginia four over Syracuse.

Midwest — Purdue 21 over Indiana, Illinois 14 over Northwestern; Colorado 14 over Iowa State, and Wisconsin seven over Minnesota.

South — Clemson 19 over Wake Forest, Maryland 12 over Virginia; Duke seven over North Carolina; Tennessee seven over Kentucky, and Georgia Tech three over Florida.

Southwest — Arkansas 14 over Texas Tech; Houston seven over Tulsa, and Rice three over Texas Christian.

Far West — Stanford seven over California, and Washington three over Washington State.

Pennsylvanians Sparking VMI to Unbeaten Season

LEXINGTON, Va (UP)—Ten credited today with helping spark Virginia Military Institute to its most successful season since 1920.

The Keydets presently stand at eight victories and one tie. The only undefeated season in VMI history was in 1920 when the squad recorded a 9-0 record.

End Nick Evanusich, Oakmont, is back in the lineup after sustaining injuries in the Holy Cross game. The "old reliable" of the team had competed in 22 consecutive games prior to his injury.

Other Western Pennsylvanians credited with helping the Keydets are end Carl Kasko, McKees Rocks; right tackle Jim McFalls, Sturgeon, Allegheny County; center Jerry Borst, Pitcairn; end Dick Evans, Wilmerding; tackle Bob Rader, Wilkinsburg; Quarterback Bill Nebraska, Dunbar, halfback Joe Morabit, Butler; halfback Jim True and fullback Harry Shepherd, both of Lawrence County.

College Scoring Champ May Score Less Than 100

NEW YORK (UP)— This season's major college football scoring champion may win the title with less than 100 points, the first time that has happened since 1948 and only the third time in the past 19 years.

Bob Anderson of Army leads the scorers with 84 points, and has one game left, against Navy. The odds seem stacked against Anderson scoring three touchdowns against the Middies. Jimmy Taylor of Louisiana State was second in scoring with 74 points and also has only one game left, against Tulane.

Stuart Vaughn of Utah retained his lead in pass receiving statistics from the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau showed, 49 passes caught in nine games for 727 yards and five touchdowns. Gary Kapp of Utah State was second with 41 receptions, 591 yards and four touchdowns.

Vaughn has a chance at the all-time season record of 57 receptions (by Ed Brown of Fordham in 1952) and 864 yards gained (by Ed Barker of Washington State in 1951). Vaughn needs eight catches and 137 yards.

Dave Sherer of Southern Methodist leads in punting with an average of 45.0 yards per kick on 25 punts in seven games, but Ken Hall of Idaho is close behind with 44.7 yards per kick on 18 punts in nine games.

Tom Greene of Holy Cross leads in total offense with 1,323 yards in eight games, and Leon Burton of Arizona (Tempe) State leads in rushing with 967 yards in eight games. Bob Newman of Washington State is the leading forward passer with 90 completions in 163 passes.

Ortega in Training

NEW YORK (UP)— Gaspar Ortega of Mexico began training at Stillman's Gymnasium today for his Dec 6 welterweight title elimination match at Cleveland with Isaac Logart of Cuba. Ortega, who arrived from Tiajuana, Mexico, Tuesday will remain here until a week before the bout, then go to Cleveland.

Terry Brennan Honored as UP's 'Coach of Week' Second Time

SOUTH BEND, Ind (UP)—He told his quarterback to "be reckless, not cautious."

He watched that quarterback get reckless enough to snap the nation's longest winning streak, "and the way we played we would have beaten anybody."

Yet he still wasn't content in his greatest glory, saying "we should have had a couple more touchdowns."

He's Terry Brennan of Notre Dame, the United Press football Coach of the Week after his Irish upset Oklahoma, 7-0, last Saturday and shattered the Sooners' 47-game winning streak.

Honored Twice

Selection of 29-year-old Brennan marks the first time that the same man has been chosen coach of the week twice in one season. He also won the honor five weeks ago when the Irish upset Army.

The advice to quarterback Bob Williams was unique. "We want you to be fearless and reckless out there," Brennan told him all week. "Think of a play that you couldn't possibly call in any given situation and then call it."

TD in Last Period

Williams threw out his bread-and-butter plays many times, now that the responsibility had been lifted from his shoulders. He passed from deep in his own territory on several occasions. Then, with Oklahoma weary, he went back to power football in the last period on a relentless 20-play touchdown drive.

The victory over Oklahoma lifted the Notre Dame season record to 5-2, with those losses to Navy and Michigan State. There's no letup in sight for the Irish, who play host this week to a strong Iowa team smarting from a loss to Ohio State Saturday. Iowa always has proved tough for Notre Dame but how tough can anyone be after Oklahoma?

TV Match Arranged

NEW YORK (UP)— Wim Snoek of Holland will arrive here Thursday to sign for a television bout Dec. 11 against British Empire Lightheavyweight champ Yvon Durelle of Canada. Snoek has been boxing in the Dutch West Indies

Wesleyan Service Guild in Meeting on Monday Evening

A study of hymns written by Samuel, John and Charles Wesley provided the program on Monday evening at the meeting of the Wesleyan Service Guild of the First Methodist Church. The session was in the church social rooms with Mrs. C. W. Bierwirth in charge due to the illness of the president, Carol Davenport.

The trio wrote many hymns, 25 of which appear in the hymn book used at the local church. Mrs. Retta McSweeney discussed three of these compositions, "Behold the Savior of Mankind," "Jesus Thou Boundless Love to Me" "Jesus Lover of My Soul."

Mrs. Florence Ames conducted the devotional period and took her scripture from Genesis. She told the story of "Abraham" after which the group joined in singing, "The Spirit of the Living God."

Guests from the Webster Methodist Church were present to observe the organization. They have tentative plans for starting a similar group in Webster. Mrs Ames explained the functions of the guild, the study program and the use of funds raised.

During the business session plans were made for a Christmas party and the place will be announced. It was decided not to have a gift exchange and instead to remember some needy or ill person

On Sunday afternoon, Dec 15, there will be a workshop at the local church for the guilds from throughout the McKeesport District at 2 30 p m

Disease Resistance Up to Mice

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UP)—Looking forward to the happy day when science will understand precisely why it is some people "resist" infectious diseases but others don't, scientists have carried out some challenging experiments in mice.

World famous Dr. Rene J. Dubos and Dr. Russell W. Schaedler of the Rockefeller Institute based their experiments upon the well known fact that people whose diets are poor in protein tend to be very poor resisters.

Because disease-resistance (or lack of it) is particularly important in growing children, they experimented with young, growing mice. These mice were put on a wholesome diet containing every known essential nutritional substance. By varing its protein content from mouse to mouse, the scientists created mousy measuring rods.

Into these mice they injected various disease-causing bacteria Some bacteria were most likely to cause death quickly; others caused the slowly building - up kinds of infections. The idea was to find out which mice eating meals containing varying amounts and kinds of protein "resisted" these bacterial invasions best.

Some Less Resistant

The mice whose food contained eight per cent of the milk protein, casein, were much less resistant to all types of infections than mice who were on 20 per cent casein diets.

Mice on diets containing 22 per cent protein but protein largely of vegetable origin, were only a little more resistant to bacterial disease than the eight - per - cent casein mice.

The scientists said this made it "apparent" that the quality of the protein in the diet was important in the building of resistance, as well as the amount of protein.

They were able to increase the resistance of the eight-per-cent casein mice merely by adding amino acids to their diet. Amino acids are not proteins but the building-blocks from which body chemistry makes protein

Most challenging of their findings, perhaps, was a demonstration that the nutritional factors having to do with "resistance" are not the factors required for the growth of young animals.

Their experiments were designed to produce "basic facts" upon which further experiments may be based. They reported them today to the fall meeting of the National Academy of Sciences. At the same meeting, Dr. Howard A. Schneider, also of the Rockefeller Institute, reported another set of facts to challenge scientific seekers of whole pictures.

In his new experiments, he took bacteria of the same type but two different kinds, one extremely effective in producing infection, the other extremely ineffective. These two kinds were mixed together and injected into mice.

Mr. and Mrs Albert Berry and family of Lorain, O., spent the weekend visiting Mr and Mrs Robert Berry of State St.

Girard Result Criticized by Jap Newspapers

CAMP DREW, Japan (UP)—Two of Japan's biggest newspapers today criticized the suspended sentence granted Army S3C William S Girard on his conviction on manslaughter charges in the shooting of a Japanese woman.

The Mainichi and Asahi termed the verdict handed down by the Maebashi District Court against the Ottawa, Ill soldier "too lenient" The third of Japan's "Big Three" newspapers, the Yomuri, said the sentence was "appropriate" because it had to "be solved with political considerations"

Most Japanese agreed with the sentiments expressed by the Mainichi and Ashai. Many felt the suspended sentence was tantamount to a verdict of innocent and that Girard should have served at least a part of the three year term imposed by the court

It was noted that Girard would be free to return to the United States if no appeal is made by the prosecution or defense within the next 14 days.

Girard was convicted by the court in the Jan 30 firing range death of Mrs. Naka Sakai. He was sentenced to three years imprisonment but the sentence was suspended for four years

Theories Differ on Wisconsin Slayings

MADISON, Wis. (UP)—A sheriff maintained today that bachelor farmer Ed Gein committed the mass murder of 10 or more women to obtain his collection of human heads

Sheriff Herbert Wanserski of Portage County injected the controversial theory into the investigation Tuesday night when he said he found the shrunken head of a missing woman in Gein's "house of horrors."

However, the director of Wisconsin's crime laboratory, Charles Wilson, said it would be impossible to identify any of the human death masks or skulls by sight

Gein, 51, a frail, mild-mannered farmer from near Plainfield, Wis, has admitted butchering a Plainfield woman storekeeper last Saturday. He said he got the rest of the skulls found in his junk-littered home by robbing fresh graves.

More Tests For Gein

Gein was scheduled to undergo further lie tests this morning at crime laboratory headquarters here in an effort to settle the issue

Gein was questioned for about five hours Tuesday afternoon and submitted to a 35-minute lie test

Wanserski told newsmen he and other authorities found the "face and head of Mary Hogan," a 54-year-old tavern operator from near Plainfield who disappeared nearly three years ago

Gein has admitted dragging Mrs. Worden's body from her hardware store and hanging it by the heels in his woodshed. When found, the body had been decapitated and "dressed out like a deer."

There also were traces of formaldehyde in Gein's house, Wilson said, which could mean that Gein embalmed murder victims or that the skulls could have come from persons already embalmed.

Disputes Wanserski

But Wilson said he did not think Wanserski could possibly identify the head of Mary Hogan from among Gein's ghoulish trophies

Wanserski said the heads found in the farmhouse had been skinned and made into death masks which were "well preserved, with hair, ears, lips and nose."

The sheriff also confirmed that other items made from human skin were scattered about the house, including a vest made of a woman's torso, and chairs that had been upholstered with human skin

Sheriff Arthur Schley of Gein's home county said he was satisfied that Gein killed only Mrs. Worden and that the other skulls came from graves.

New Smog Sampling

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Pittsburgh Coke & Chemical Co. announced today it has been awarded a U.S. Public Health Service contract to develop new type smog sampling equipment.

The company said the project centers around design for an effective device for collecting samples of gaseous and vaporous airborne contaminants. The project is part of the Federal Community Air Pollution Program.

Purpose of the project is to design a more efficient collector of smog pollutant samples for subsequent identification and analysis.

Soviet Union Wants to Force U.S. into Summit Arms Parley

UNITED NATIONS (UP)—The Soviet Union is seeking to force the United States into a "summit" conference on disarmament, western diplomatic observers said today.

They said Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov made this clear when he announced Tuesday that Russia would boycott future meetings of the U.N. Disarmament Commission.

Kuznetsov said Russia "will not be here in January" when the commission is expected to resume its talks in line with an overwhelming mandate from the 82-member General Assembly.

The Assembly, by a 60-9 vote with 11 abstentions, agreed late Tuesday to expand the present commission to 25 memers by adding Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Brazil, Burma, Czechoslovakia, Egypt, India, Italy, Mexico, Norway, Poland, Tunisia and Yugoslavia.

It also voted down, 46-9 with 24 abstentions, a Soviet proposal for a commission comprising all 82 U.N. members.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge said Russia "cannot successfully disregard this massive expression of world opinion."

But the Russians said they would do just that and western diplomats said it would cost them dearly in world prestige.

Kuznetsov said the Soviets would not participate in the commission unless its membership were evenly divided between Soviet supporters and "neutrals" on one side and western backers on the other.

"Comrade Khrushchev has suggested a summit talk," he observed.

Communist Party boss Nikita S Khrushchev told United Press Staff Correspondent Henry Shapiro in Moscow last week that a top-level East-West meeting was the only way to prevent war.

"We believe that there's no other way out — a meeting will have to take place," Khrushchev said. But he said also he did not think such a conference would take place "in the near future."

No Tax Boost In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (UP)—City taxpayers were assured today there will be no increases in five special levies in 1958.

City council passed ordinances Monday renewing the city wage tax and four other taxes but pegging the rates at the same level as 1957.

However, there was speculation as to how the administration will raise new revenue for the 1958 budget requirements which are expected to be higher than in 1957.

City Hall observers believe increases in license fees and various other city charges will be put into effect to raise the additional revenue.

Ike to Devote Some Time to Golfing Today

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UP)— President Eisenhower planned to devote most of his time today at the Dixie White House to relaxation and a possible round of golf

He plans to return to Washington Thursday.

Eisenhower has kept in touch with defense and foreign affairs by telephone and Tuesday conferred with Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy and his taff. McElroy spent two hours with the President on a flying visit to discuss defense spending and the federal budget

The secretary announced following the meeting that the United States will begin furnishing intermediate range missiles to Britain and some other European nations some time in 1959.

White House Press Secretary James C Hagerty announced following the conference that Eisenhower will deliver the third of his "chins up" speeches at Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 26.

Gurske said bureau statistics showed the college graduate's lifetime earnings average $113,000 more than those of a high school graduate and $152,000 more than those of a grade school

New Steel Business 'Well Below Output'

NEW YORK (UP)—New business in the steel industry is running "well below output," and it's got steel men "worried," Iron Age said today.

Sharp competition for the customer's dollar is in the cards for the balance of the year and into 1958, according to the authoritative steel trade magazine.

One bright spot is that industry generally is "chewing up more steel than it is buying," Iron Age said.

As a result inventories in the hands of users have been dropping steadily.

"Many customers are living hand-to-mouth, gauging their requirements close to their own production schedules," the metalworking weekly said. "This means any pickup in the overall economy would be reflected quickly in the volume of steel orders."

Iron Age said foreign competition is eating into the domestic market.

It noted the latest assault has hit the market for oil country goods—pipe used in the drilling and casing of oil wells.

Italian casing and tubing has been offered in Houston at $10 a ton less than the Pittsburgh-plus-barge U.S. price. Canadian mills have brought in some material at $2 less than the U.S. mills are asking. The Japanese also are "nibbling" at the oil country goods market.

Another sore spot with U.S. mills is foreign competition in wire and nails, Iron Age said. "This has plagued domestic producers for months, and there's no relief in sight."

Iron Age said lower labor costs enable foreign mills to undersell U.S. producers even with the addition of ocean shipping costs.

ARE VITAMINS MEDICINE?

Door-to-door salesmen are selling "vitamin preparations" these days and you may think these are therapeutic doses. They may or may not be. Point is, that you can't know whether they are or not, and the salesman probably isn't qualified to know whether you ever need them. If you do need vitamins in the therapeutic quantities, only your physician can tell you what you need and how much, and only your registered pharmacist should dispense them. Where your health is concerned, always rely on competent professionals.

Japanese Wives Go Democratic

TOKYO (UP)—No one can tell what the new age in Japan will eventually turn out to be—democracy or authoritarianism, liberalism or Communism.

But one segment of the population has made up its mind. The housemaids are going 100 per cent democratic.

They are getting more democratic—and more scarce — every year.

The shortage of housemaids is now a nationwide phenomenon. Last year public employment offices in Tokyo handled 15,962 applications seeking housemaids. Against this, there were only 9,060 housemaids seeking jobs.

Housemaids Getting Choosy

And only about 40 per cent of the applicants took jobs as housemaids.

The reason, unheard of in the Orient, is familiar to American families. The other 60 per cent could not find "suitable" families to work for.

Japanese maids are now picking out the families they want to work for, not vice versa.

Take the case of Miss X. Last spring she was employed in the home of a well-known university professor for 6,000 yen ($16.62) a month, plus room and board — an unusually good wage.

Miss X was glad to be employed at a university professor's home for a good wage. But she had to get up at 6 a.m. and prepare breakfast by 7 a.m. She also had to do cleaning, sweeping, shopping, washing, and other sundry chores until 11 p.m.

Provide Own Transportation

When shopping, she had to go to stores where her boss said prices were reasonable, regardless of how far these stores might be from home. She even paid bus fares out of her own pocket to go to these distant shops.

The wife of the professor liked things to be very punctual. If the maid came home late, she was certain to get scolded.

This was not out of the ordinary for a maid 10 or 20 years ago. But today, in modern Japan, this professor and his wife are without a maid. Miss X quit after one month.

Housemaids have become socially conscious, and they like the example set by their "sisters" in the United States.

It appears the shortage of housemaids will get worse before it gets better. They love the benefits of democratic life more and more every year.

Sparks Blamed For Marianna Mine Explosion

WASHINGTON (UP) —The Bureau of Mines announced today a coal mine explosion that killed six men Sept. 23 was caused by the ignition of gas by an electric arc or spark from a work "jeep" or from a trolley wire cutout switch.

The explosion was in the Marianna No. 58 mine of the Bethlehem Mines Corp., Marianna, Pa. It occurred after the failure of one of the mine's two ventilating fans. Because of the fan stoppage, the mine was idle and only 11 men were underground. Most of these were officials checking with the ventilating system.

In reconstructing events leading to the tragedy, bureau investigators said that explosive methane gas, liberated in large quantities by the coal bed, was allowed to accumulate in a heavy concentration in a return airway. It then was carried into one of the main haulage ways through a partly open door in a stopping or gap left by removal of blocks in another stopping. Many stoppings or barriers are used in the mine's ventilating system.

Of the 11 men in the mine, five died almost immediately. The six remaining men were injurd. Another died several days later.

The federal investigators said use of rock dust (powdered limestone) as a safety measure in the mine was one of the factors in preventing spread of the explosion.

Aged Man Dies From Water Burns

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa. (UP) — Ellis P. Jones, 88, died Tuesday in Connellsville State Hospitol of burns suffered when he was unable to turn off the hot water tap in his bath tub.

Volcano at Pole

LONDON (UP)—Soviet scientists claimed today to have discovered an active volcano in the North Pole area, Moscow Radio reported. The broadcast said the claim was made in Leningrad by Prof. Yakov Gakkel who said minerals of volcanic extraction had been discovered in samples of soil collected from the underwater Lomonosov Mountain Range.

Pittsburgh-Erie Link Sought in Beaver Area

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Beaver County Planning Commission has submitted a proposal to the state Highways Department for construction of a superhighway to link the Beaver Valley with Pittsburgh and Erie.

A delegation conferred with Highways Secretary Lewis M. Stevens late Monday for a limited access facility to extend from a point west of the Greater Pittsburgh Airport and connecting with the proposed Keystone Shortway in Mercer County.

The highway would connect Beaver Valley with Pittsburgh on the south and Erie on the north.

Stevens told the delegation that preliminary plans submitted by the planning commission would be carefully studied by department engineers. He said a decision on the possibility for beginning construction on the project would be announced shortly.

Michael Baker, Jr., Rochester, Pa., highway engineering consultant and a resident of Beaver Valley, presented traffic studies and pertinent engineering and industrial data to the department in support of the proposal.

The delegation said the road would serve the highly concentrated industrial area of Beaver, Lawrence and Mercer counties and would provide easier access to the St. Lawrence Seaway at Erie, the Keystone Shortway and the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Attending the conference were Paul Einglady, New Castle; James Rugh, West Penn Conference president, New Castle; G.A. Harshman, publisher, Sharon Herald; Blair Shears, president, Beaver County Manufacturers Association; Don Boone, Babcock and Wilcox Tube Co.; William Moore, secretary, Beaver County Planning Commission; Frank Newell, of the planning commission; Dave Johns, commission chairman; Ray Kleeze, Beaver County CIO Council; John Grozier and William Nickleson, both of the Sharon CIO; Harry Boyer, president, Pennsylvania CIO Council, and Joseph P. Reicht, of the Michael Baker firm.

Your telephone neighbors join you in contributing money and manpower to worthy community causes

Telephone people are good citizens almost by definition because the nature of telephone work attracts men and women with a highly developed sense of community responsibility.

In almost any type of worthy activity, you will find that telephone people give generously of both their time and money. To cite but one example, the gifts of our employees this year to Community Chests and Federations in company-sponsored plans alone will total considerably more than a half-million dollars.

And chances are that both the work and the money of telephone people have provided valuable support to your local Red Cross, PTA, service clubs, hospital organizations, scouting groups and many others.

The 39,000 Pennsylvania telephone people know that community service is a privilege and a pleasure. Because they are good citizens, they help make good communities.

We are a vital part of Pennsylvania's economy

Telephone people and the telephone company contribute to the welfare of the community in many other ways. Our employees spend most of their $177 million annual wages with local concerns. As a company, we purchased supplies and services valued at more than $41 million last year from hundreds of businesses, large and small, throughout the areas we serve.

In one way or another, directly or indirectly, telephone people and the telephone company contribute to the well-being of almost every Pennsylvanian. That is why the successful operation of our company is important to everybody.

Royal Couple Wed 10 Years

LONDON (UP)— Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip observed their 10th wedding anniversary today and enjoyed the luxury of staying home for a change.

The royal couple, usually on a hectic whirl of social, civic or diplomatic functions, reserved today just for themselves and possibly the family and a few friends.

There was no pre-arranged reception, no official salutes or flag-flying. Just a day at home in Buckingham Palace.

Palace sources said Princess Margaret and the Queen Mother might join the royal couple and Princess Anne for a family dinner party.

Prince Charles, away at Cheam Boarding School, was not brought home for the occasion.

Your Health—

Chemicals Can Be A Threat

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

I don't think any informed person will question the fact that many new chemicals, such as DDT and others with which you are familiar, have made life a good deal easier and more pleasant.

At the same time, however, they have complicated the overall health picture. As more and more chemicals are brought into everyday use around the home, in the factory and on the farm, the number of potentially harmful exposures to chemicals increases, too.

Actually, a recent discussion on the problem by the American Medical Association's Committee on Toxicology and Committee on Pesticides reported that the problem is more serious than the average person realizes.

Many of us, for example, have very small amounts of DDT stored in the fat in our bodies. There appears, however, to be virtually no danger in such a situation even though it is widespread.

Studies indicate that we can store DDT in additional quantities only for about a year. After that, our bodies store no more, no matter how much we take in. One particular survey failed to yield a single case of an illness related to DDT.

Other chemicals, however, do present a certain amount of danger. We can breathe into our lungs such substances as vapors, fumes, dust, gases and mists. We can swallow other substances along with water and food. And we can absorb still others through the skin, eyes and ears.

I can't begin to describe all the possible dangerous elements. There are more than 500 of them in household use alone.

All along the line, from industrial workers to processors, to distributors, to agricultural or household users, persons are continually exposed to them. It's almost impossible to avoid them.

So the best way of protecting yourself is to read labels and instructions carefully. Whether you are processing food or cleaning the house, follow instructions provided by your boss or the manufacturer of the chemical you are using.

In other words, follow the age-old advice: "Use according to directions."

Question and Answer

E.D.: My 10-month-old daughter sweats profusely on the soles of her feet. What do you advise?

Answer: The sweating may be due to some instability of her sympathetic nervous system. No cure is known. It is not a matter for great concern, for it will not cause permanent disability in the child.

Micronesia, the name applied to the Marianas, Marshall and Caroline islands, in the Pacific, means "small islands."

Lassie to Take on New Set of Owners

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — The nation's living rooms will be awash with tears Dec. 1 when Lassie barks farewell to her old family and takes on a new set of owners.

Producers of the canine saga have pulled all stops in an attempt to wring as many sobs from the situation as possible.

Here's how it goes:

The show opens with Ellen Miller (Jan Clayton) being comforted by friends over the death of "Gramps." Jeff (Tommy Rettig) is in the barnyard playing with Lassie when a young couple wanders on screen to lease the farm.

Newcomers Take All

The newcomers are Paul and Ruth Martin (played by Jon Shepodd and Cloris Leachman). They not only agree to take over the farm, they also decide to adopt little Timmy (Jon Provost) who was introduced on the show earlier this year.

Then, while eyes mist, Jeff and his mother prepare to leave the old homestead.

Lassie is caught in the middle. The big collie senses she is going to be left behind, yet she can't be too upset because, after all, she still has Timmy and the farm.

At any rate, by the time the Millers roll off in their old car everybody in the cast is blubbering. CBS hopes the nation-wide audience also will be weeping bucketsful.

The transition was forced when young Rettig outgrew his part. The real-life death of George Cleveland, who played "Gramps," and Miss Clayton's desire to move on, ended the old format.

Newcomers Shepodd and Leachman are a clean-cut looking pair who have stepped into a rough situation.

They're afraid audiences will resent them for pushing the old, familiar faces off the program. Their scripts also call for friction with Timmy.

A relative newcomer to television, Shepodd is a slow, easy-going man with a twinkle in his eye. He believes his role in the series will give him public identity and insure his future acting career.

Cloris is a happy-go-lucky girl, a little on the plain side, who has her troubles with Lassie in the first few episodes.

Both Shepodd and Miss Leachman agree, however, that by this time next year they'll be as close to Lassie fans as the original cast.

Slight Mistake!

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UP) — Cabbie John N. Bachman handed his weekly pay check for $9,000,028.65 to deputy court clerk Gene Bosekeer to pay for a $25 speeding ticket, and demanded the correct change. When Bosekeer balked, Bachman paid the $25 in cash and took his check back to the cab company where he works part time to have it corrected. Nine million dollars was deducted.

A Good Try

LONGVIEW, Tex. (UP) — Two men held for investigation by Marshall, Tex., police in connection with a recent holdup had an airtight alibi. They were in jail at Longview when the robbery occurred.

TV Actor Wants on Many Shows

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UP)—Aside from such curious anatomical specimens as Jayne Mansfield, Farley Granger may be the only TV performer unconcerned with over-exposure.

While other actors try to hold down their TV emoting to three or four major dramas a season, Granger capers through that many in a few weeks. Witness his recent schedule:

On Oct. 23, "Kraft Theatre." Nov. 7 — "Playhouse 90." Next Monday—A CBS-TV spectacular, "Beyond This Place." Dec. 4—Another "Kraft."

Not Over-exposed

"Over-exposure? As far as I'm concerned there isn't any such thing," said Granger as he worked his way through some under-exposed chopped steak. "I don't think anybody should be afraid to take on as many roles as he's offered.

"I've been careful in my choice of roles, but in this business, you can careful yourself out of existence. The only important thing is to work. There's nothing wrong with being in a flop and I don't think people remember your TV or movie flops anyway. They remember your successes.

"They remember Joan Crawford for 'Mildred Pierce' or Bette Davis for 'Jezebel.' But they don't remember all the bombs they were in and they were in plenty, just like everyone else in the business."

Debuted in 'North Star'

Granger, a by-product of San Jose, Calif., made his movie debut in 1943 in "North Star." He then threaded his way through a succession of pictures including "Rope," "Strangers on a Train" and "They Ride by Night." He fled Hollywood three years ago.

"Acting for pictures is a very difficult craft which I don't think I knew anything about at all," confessed Granger. "In fact, I didn't know anything about acting at all. That's why I came to New York—to learn about my craft.

'I was pretty young when I broke into pictures and I looked upon acting as something you do under the stimulus of inspiration. The trouble with that method is that most of the time you don't really feel any inspiration and you become a line reader. That's what I was.

Problem is Unlearning

"My problem has been to unlearn everything I learned in pictures. I was burdened with all sorts of acting cliches. It's something a bunch of us now in New York — Shelley Winters, Roddy McDowell, Peggy Ann Garner—have found we had to do. We left pictures so we could learn about our craft."

Granger has found that increasingly in TV, he has been assigned to oddball roles or "cukes" as they're known in the trade.

'I've found that I like playing cukes and villains," said Granger. "You can have more fun with a cuke—the audience will accept all sorts of quirks in your acting that would not be accepted in portraying a hero.

"But cukes or heroes, I don't really care what I play. All I want to do is work. And find myself—I guess that's my biggest objective. I'm trying to search out some sort of identity for myself, something you just can't hope to find in ollywood."

It Never Snows at South Pole; It's Too Cold for Flakes

By CHARLES MOORE

McMURDO, Antarctica (UP) — "It never snows at the South Pole."

Navy Cmdr. John Mirabito, chief meteorologist at Operation Deep Freeze headquarters here, explained it was too cold at the bottom of the world for snowflakes.

Mirabito, 40, of Hyde Park, Mass., said precipitation in Antarctica takes the form of feathery ice crystals which in the past centuries have built up the 5,000-foot high ice pack.

Mirabito, who heads a five-man staff of weather forecasters and observers, is responsible for the weather predictions upon which all the American pilots in the antarctic depend.

Forecasts Usually Right

His staff includes: Navy Lt. Tom Fredian of (6412 N. Lemai St.) Chicago; chief aerographers mate Almer A. Erdei of Quonset, R.I.; aerographer 2C Ronald W. Palmer of (2833 Alaska St.) Seattle; aerographer 3C Bob Fancher of Carlsbad, N.M., and aerographer 3C Arvil T. Creacy of Gatesville, Tex.

Thus far, Mirabito and his staff have been right often enough to remain on speaking terms with the pilots in the antarctic.

Mirabito, who speaks six languages and has written numerous books on weather and forecasting, has been with Task Force 43 and Operation Deep Freeze since the planning stage.

He said that when the Navy first flew planes into McMurdo there were no weather stations on this side of the antarctic.

"We put ships in line between here and New Zealand and used their reports," he said.

Three Stations Helped

Mirabito said weather forecasting became a little easier when three stations were built at Little America, McMurdo and at Liv Station, 550 miles to the south.

"That's about like flying from New York to St. Louis and Denver with three weather stations," he said.

"On a long range basis," he explained, "what happens to weather down here can aid in getting more accurate forecasts as far away as New York and London," he said.

He said the movement of air masses around the world is something like the movement of water in a bathtub.

"It's just impossible to disturb part of it without the effects eventually reaching the water in the rest of the tub."

CSTC PLAY TONIGHT — Darla Barth, sophomore from Charleroi, will be featured in the California State Teachers College production of Pygmalion which begins a four-night stand at the college auditorium tonight.

Duty Bound

CHICAGO (UP)—When policeman Myron Roseman sets his mind to writing a ticket, he writes it. Roseman jumped on a moving freight train to ticket the conductor after a motorist complained the train had stopped and held up traffic for too long a time.

Disease Researchers Are Busy in Atlanta

ATLANTA (UP) — A major campaign in mankind's constant fight against "catching" diseases is under development in a group of weather beaten barracks just outside Atlanta.

Researchers of the U.S. Public Health Service's Communicable Disease Center are laying the groundwork for battles against billions of microscopic bugs that are responsible for infectious diseases.

Asian flu is one of the diseases involved but others for which the Atlanta researchers are seeking preventive measures are yellow jaundice, leprosy, diarrheal ailments, and the common cold.

Two new diagnostic techniques have made the center's work easier and the general medical future brighter.

One is a process in which antibodies for a given disease are treated with a fluorescent material, then turned loose in a specimen of suspected diseased matter. If the disease is present, its germs will announce themselves under the microscope by glowing brightly.

The other process is a speedy and economical method of determining whether a person is immune to a certain disease.

Dr. Ukko Pentti Kokko, one of the top administrators at the research laboratory at Chamblee, Ga., sees the center's work as a step toward prolonging the life span — which has already been lengthened substantially in recent decades.

"Of the millions upon millions of persons born on the earth since Christ lived, 5 per cent are alive today," said Dr. Kokko, a former medical officer with the Finnish army.

The research administrator used this statistic to illustrate medical science's great strides in expanding the length of the average man's life.

The CDC, headed by the assistant surgeon general, Robert J. Anderson, had its beginnings in 1942, when an agency called malaria control in war areas (MCWA) was formed to try to hold down malaria around militarily strategic areas in the Southeast. When World War II ended, it was expanded to include the entire field of infectious disease.

But its primary function continues to be research — finding a basis for effective medical attacks on diseases that spread.

17 Miners Are Killed at Pit

MUIRKIRK, Scotland (UP)—An explosion ripped through a coal mine near here Tuesday night, killing 17 miners. The rest of the 300-man force scrambled to safety through falling rock, fumes and heavy dust.

Rescue crews which worked through the night recovered the bodies of 15 miners trapped 1,000 feet underground by the blast. Two other miners brought to the surface died of their injuries today in a hospital.

The explosion occurred in the Kames Colliery, one of the oldest working mines in western Scotland. The sound of the blast echoed throughout the adjoining countryside and brought hundreds of men and women to the pit head.

It was Britain's worst mine disaster since 1951 when 81 miners were killed in an explosion at Easington.
